A HENRY CLAY STORY.

Fate of the Resolution Instructing Him
How to Vote.

Adlai Stevenson in "Something of Men I Have Known," commenting on Henry Clay, tells this anecdote:

Possibly since the foundation of the government no statesman has been so completely idolized by his friends and party as was Henry Clay. Words are meaningless when the attempt is made to express the idolatry of the Whigs of his own state for their great chief. For a lifetime he knew no rival. His wish was law to his followers. In the realm of party leadership a greater than he hath not appeared. At his last defeat for the presidency strong men wept bitter tears. When his star set it was felt to be the signal for the dissolution of the great party of which he was the founder. In words worthy to be recalled, "when the tidings came like walling over the state that Harry Percy's spur was cold the chivalrous felt somehow the world had grown commonplace."

The following incident along the line indicated may be considered characteristic. While Mr. Clay was a senator a resolution, in accordance with a some time custom, was introduced into the Kentucky house of representatives instructing the senators from that state to vote in favor of a certain bill then pending in congress. The resolution was in the act of passing without opposition when a hitherto silent member from one of the mountain counties, springing to his feet, exclaimed, "Mr. Speaker, am I to understand that this legislature is undertaking to tell Henry Clay how to vote?" The speaker answered that such was the purport of the resolution. At which the member from the mountains, throwing up his arms, exclaimed, "Great heaven!" and sank into his seat. It is needless to add that the resolution was immediately rejected by unanimous vote.

The Aged and Infirm One.

The Haldane family has always been noted in England for its famous walkers, and the present head of the family tells this story of one of his ancestors:

This old gentleman, having been proved for by a clergyman as "thine aged and infirm servant," immediately suggested a little walk with his surprised clerical friend. The latter consented, and the "aged and infirm" Mr. Haldane took him for such a tremendously long walk that when the clergyman returned, utterly exhausted, he fell asleep and could only with difficulty be awakened to conduct a religious service.—London M. A. P.

OLD TIME MANNERS.

Rules of Good Behavior in the Early Eighteenth Century.

In a work entitled "Youth's Behavior," published in 1706, there is this injunction to young gentlemen, "Put off thy Cap or Hat to persons of Desert as are Churchmen, Justices and the like, turning the Cap or Hat to thyself; making a Reverence, bowing thyself more or less according to the custom of the better bred."

In the midst of remarks which indicate the utmost refinement we come suddenly upon such directions as this: "Tis not manners as soon as you are set at Table to hawl out, 'I eat none of this, I eat none of that, I care for no Rabbit; I love nothing that tastes of Pepper, Nutmeg, Onions,'" etc.

After stating that "some have been so refined in Foreign parts that they will neither be covered, nor sit with their backs to the picture of an eminent Person," the writer goes on to remark that "there are some who eat with that eagerness and impatience, they eat themselves out of breath and will pant like a broken winded Horse, but these are not to be endured."

He also warns his pupil thus: "When you are talking to any one do not continually punch him in the side, as some people do; who, after every sentence keep asking the person they are conversing with, 'Did I not tell you so?' 'What say you, sir?' and in the meantime they are every moment yawning and thrusting him with their elbows, which cannot be considered as marks of respect."

The Yearling Colt.

A yearling may be kept well, which means kept growing, at not to exceed from $2 to $2.50 per month while in stable and for much less when at pasture, says the Farm Journal. A favorite ration is a pint of ground oats, the same of bran and half a gill of oilmeal, twice a day, made into a thin gruel with water and spread on the hay feed. If hay is high, feed out straw in its place if bright and clean. Do not give the colts any dusty food, and see to it that they do not become constipated. Linseed meal, roots, cornstalks and apples are useful to prevent this danger. The main thing is to keep the youngster growing and to see that he has no backset. Stunted colts, like stunted children, will carry the effects of early malnutrition as a handicap all through life.

THE SPORTING WORLD

Crowley Expected to Make Good.

Although Jim Crowley, the former amateur champion Marathon runner, failed to make good in his initial professional performance in the fifteen mile race held in New York recently, in which he ran a bad fifth, the friends of the big, husky Irishman are sure that he will more than make good later. They claim that the fifteen mile route is not his forte, but at the full Marathon distance there are few, if any, runners that he cannot show his heel to. When an amateur Crowley captured many races at this distance in hollow style and established several records.

Cleveland to Boom Cricket.

Cleveland cricket enthusiasts are determined to make their game one of the leading sports the coming season. Already arrangements have been made to bring the famous Belmont team of Philadelphia to Cleveland to play, while, in addition to that, many other strides for the growth of the sport are to be made.

The cricket grounds are located in Gordon park, on the banks of Lake Erie, an ideal place to play. The clubhouse is fitted up with shower baths, lockers and other accessories that will prove of benefit to the players.

One of the new features to be tried out this year will be the securing of a first class professional. He will be on the grounds every afternoon during the season. He will set up the nets and coach any player who desires his services. Through this man's instructions better players will be developed and more will be taught how to play the game. To promote interest and friendly rivalry a six team league will be formed, the players of which will be chosen from the club members. Matches with other clubs will also be arranged.

Patriotic.

That Kentuckians have a very high regard for their native state is illustrated by this anecdote told by one of them:

Once a Kentuckian died, so a near relative went to the local tombstone artist to arrange about an inscription on the deceased's tombstone.

After due cogitation the near relative said:

"Carve on it, 'He's gone to a better place.'"

"I'll carve, 'He's gone to heaven,' if you want me to," remarked the tombstone artist. "But, as for that other inscription, there's no better place than Kentucky."

Tennessee Dog Is Champion.

Monora, a setter owned and handled by J. M. Avert of Hickory Valley, Tenn., was proclaimed the best hunting dog in America recently and awarded championship honors over a class of fourteen high class dogs. The conclusion of the event, the championship stakes of the United States Field club, brought the field trials of 1909 to an end.

Sale of a Farm

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of Rockbridge County, entered on the 29th day of January, 1910, in the Chancery cause of J. N. Cunningham's hrs. vs. N. N. Cunningham and others, the undersigned Commissioner will on Wednesday, April 6, 1910

at 12 m. proceed to sell at public auction, to the highest bidder the farm of J. N. Cunningham, deceased. This farm embraces about

240 Acres of Land and is situated at the head of the Waterloo Valley on Upper Kerr's Creek, in Kerr's Creek Magisterial District, adjoining the lands of J. L. Cunningham, W. C. Hughes and others; upon it is situated house, comparatively new, with necessary outbuildings, good barn, stable, etc.; about two fifths of the land is cleared and very productive, the residue is well timbered, most of it being valuable for the tan-bark and ties thereon, upon it is situated no land in the county is better adapted to fruit culture; it also has the advantage of a good market for fruits and all kinds of country produce, and is convenient to a church, etc.

TERMS OF SALE: One-fourth in cash and as to the balance, the purchaser will execute his bonds with good personal security in equal payments at one, two and three years from day of sale, bearing interest from the day of sale. If one-third of the purchase money is paid in cash, surety will be dispensed with. This property will be sold in gross as a whole and not by the acre.

FRANK T. GLASGOW,

Commissioner.

Clerk's Office of Rockbridge County:
I hereby certify that the bond required of Frank T. Glasgow, Commissioner, in the above advertisement, has been given with approved security.

Why Take Alcohol?

Are you thin, pale, easily tired, lack your usual vigor and strength? Then your digestion must be poor, your blood thin, your nerves weak. You need a tonic and alternative. You need Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the only Sarsaparilla entirely free from alcohol. We believe your doctor would endorse these statements, or we would not make them. Ask him and find out. Follow his advice. J.C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

The endorsement of your doctor will certainly greatly increase your confidence in Ayer's Pills as a family laxative. Liver pills. All vegetable. Ask your doctor about them.
